

BIDEFORD & CLOVELLY

Friday 6th August 2010

£17.95 per person

Discover the timeless village of Clovelly, where the steep, cobbled street tumbles down past gleaming white cottages to the tiny, deep-blue harbour. The street is too steep for motor vehicles, so for centuries donkeys were the main form of transport. Although they are no longer used for heavy loads, Clovelly still has its resident donkeys, and children can enjoy rides in the summer. Sensible footwear is recommended as the High Street is steep and can become slippery. For those who are unable to walk back up, there is a Land Rover service for a small fee.
